NOTES FROM A CITY EDITOR'S DAYBOOK—The campaign for the erection of a school for retarded children west of Dixon is making excellent progress.

Officials of the North Central Illinois Association for the Aid to Retarded Children are quite amazed at the reception the program is making in this locality.

They are particularly grateful for the offers of work and material coming from many Dixon firms and those from outside the community also.

The latest to join the list of "Big Hearts" is the Goral Brothers Roofing Co., 121 Galena av., Dixon.

Matt Goral has told the NCAARC that his firm will furnish all the floor tile at cost, the roofing material at cost and furnish their men, about a staff of 10, for one day—free!

Coming on top of that very generous contribution is another from Lowell Stoudt, of the Hansen and Stoudt masonry contractors, Rt. 4, Dixon.

Stoudt turned up at a meeting of the NCAARC the other night and said that his firm will contribute the labor for the plastering job free of charge!

Clayton Heller is also associated with the Hansen and Stoudt firm.

The Johns Walgreen Agency druggist, Dixon, has now stepped up with another offer. Here is a copy of a letter directed to Mrs. Carroll Boston, president of the NCAARC:

"It looks like you are really getting under way on that big project at last. Best of luck. Jerry and I would like to donate to the proposed school—for at least one year—all first aid kits, first aid supplies and all medical supplies that will be incidental to the school's operation."

Signed: Paul O. Johns and Gerald W. Laughlin.

Contributions such as we have mentioned indicates the spirit in which local people are taking the project to their hearts. Building of such a school here is a sizable project for the small group that is working its heart out so that retarded children may have a better chance in life.

But there are indications that the project is snow-balling its way to success.

When the association can expect sufficient support to break ground for the new school is anyone's guess. Many more contributions will be needed.

We'd suggest that if you or an organization you belong to feel the urge to help, that you contact Mrs. Boston and make known your contribution or a project your club wishes to sponsor to aid the cause.

Peoria Papers Announce Merger

PEORIA, Ill. (U)—The merger of Peoria's two daily newspapers was announced today.

The announcement was made by Carl P. Slane, president and publisher of the Peoria Journal and Larry Welch, president of the Peoria Star.

The new corporation bears the name Peoria Journal-Star.

The Journal and the Star will continue to publish separately, the Journal in the afternoon field and the Star in the morning newspaper field.

The separate news staffs will not be affected. The advertising and mechanical departments of the two newspapers have been merged for some time.

COACH RESIGNS

DEKALB, Ill. (U)—G. H. Hertz, head basketball and tennis coach at Northern Illinois State Teachers College for the last four years, today announced his resignation effective in June.

Hertz will continue graduate work, but his plans are not definite.

Dixon National Guard Unit Reactivated

THE 129TH INFANTRY HEADQUARTERS and headquarters company was reactivated Tuesday night at the Dixon armory. The company was called to federal service in 1951, at the outbreak of the Korean campaign. Enlistments in the national guard unit will be accepted by calling at the armory any day except Sundays. Authorities announced there are opportunities open in all categories. Regular drill night sessions are scheduled for Mondays. Pictured above at last night's session are enlisted men and officers affiliated with the reorganized unit. Left to right, kneeling, are Gerald Hipple, Carl McCarver, Herbert Youngren, LaVerne Johns, Irvin Parke, Edward Cushing, Alfred Wells, all of Dixon. Second row, Donald Petrie, Franklin Grove; Edgar Wagner, Ashton; Herbert White, Dixon; James Dillon, Franklin Grove; Wayne Janssen, Dixon; Laverne Rogers, Dixon; and Walter Petty, Dixon. Standing, First Lt. Knodle, Freeport; Sgt. Ryan, Fifth Army instructor; Lt. Col. Lochbihler; Maj. Harden, Sterling; Maj. Miller, Rock Falls; Lt. Col. Hudson, regimental commander, Princeton; Capt. Patton, Batavia; Capt. Downing, Peoria; Capt. Hindson, Ottawa; Second Lt. Edmundson, Ohio, Ill., and First Lt. Heckman, Dixon.

French on Road to Big Victory in Indochina

Outnumbered Defenders Mow Down Red Attackers

HANOI, Indochina (U)—French Union defenders of Dien Bien Phu, scything down attack after attack, appeared today to be well on the road to a big victory over the Communist-led Vietminh.

Rebel artillery opened another bombardment in the five-day battle for the strategic plain in the mountains of northwest Indochina and it may be the prelude to another mass infantry attack tonight.

But American-supplied French guns responded shot for shot and the mass attacks so far—according to a conservative French army estimate—have cost the rebels 3,000 killed. Along with those killed, it is estimated 9,000 have been wounded.

12,000 Casualties

That makes 12,000 men out of action—the strength of a Vietminh division—and about a fourth of the total forces Vietminh Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap has committed to the battle.

The garrison—Frenchmen, Foreign Legionnaires, Algerians, Moroccans, Vietnamese and friendly Thai tribesmen—was outnumbered about 4-to-1 at the outset Friday. It has suffered losses described as appreciable, but is receiving reinforcements by air.

There seemed a good chance that the Vietminh were not going to succeed in smashing this French stronghold in the Thai triangle.

New H-Bomb 'Many Times' More Powerful: Senator

WASHINGTON (U)—Rep. Durham (D-NC), ranking Democrat on the congressional atomic committee, said today the United States "exploded this month" a thermonuclear weapon many times more powerful than the explosion test of Nov. 1, 1952.

"That 1952 explosion itself was 'a success,'" Durham told a reporter. "This more recent one is just much greater."

Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY), chairman of the Senate House atomic group, had announced Tuesday night that the United States has the hydrogen bomb—"thermonuclear" is the scientific adjective for this new weapon—and can deliver it anywhere in the world.

Cole also said it is a fair assumption that Russia, too, has the H-bomb.

"Horrible Thing"

Rep. Durham took the stand that the new bomb "is such a horrible thing, it's best to tell the world about it." He added:

"The people of the entire world should be told quickly the extent of property damage and damage to life that can now be expected from this type of weapon."

Durham said the explosion this

McCormick Sells Paper In Capital

WASHINGTON (U)—The Washington Post today purchased the Times-Herald and announced that a single newspaper, under the mastheads of both, will be published hereafter.

The first edition of the enlarged newspaper was to appear this afternoon.

The purchase price was not disclosed in announcements by Eugene Meyer, chairman of the board, and Philip L. Graham, president and publisher of the Washington Post, and by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of the Times-Herald.

However, Mrs. Garvin E. Tankersley, niece of Col. McCormick, and former editor of the Times-Herald, said it was announced at a meeting of the Times-Herald board on Monday that Meyer had offered $4 million dollars for the newspaper. She is a member of the board.

Mrs. Tankersley said she indicated to the Times-Herald board that she would like to buy the paper and asked a delay in action on Meyer's offer until today—hoping meantime to raise 1½ million dollars "good faith" money for an offer of her own.

McCormick, editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, purchased the Times-Herald in 1949 for 4½ million dollars.

McCormick announced his sale of the paper in a statement to employees.

The Post said the enlarged newspaper will be published from the Washington Post plant, a six million dollar building completed in 1949.

The Post is a morning newspaper. Other newspapers now published in Washington are the Evening Star and the News, both in the afternoon field.

Pope Stronger

VATICAN CITY (U)—Pope Pius XII, slowly returning strength has enabled him to increase his hours of work and extend his walks in his Vatican apartment, it was reported today. The 78-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church has been confined to his apartment for the past seven weeks, suffering from an ailment that has been tentatively diagnosed as gastritis.

BOMB EXPLODES

NEW YORK (U)—A home-made time bomb exploded at the peak of the evening rush hour in Grand Central Terminal Tuesday, causing a great deal of excitement and one minor injury.

Former Dixonite Dies In Crash Near Byron

Rockford Druggist Is Victim

Harold W. Rowland Is Killed; Woman Companion Injured

BYRON (Special)—Harold W. Rowland, 55, Rockford druggist and a former Dixon resident, was killed early today when the car he was driving went out of control and crashed into a tree on Rt. 2 four miles north of Byron.

Mr. Rowland, a prominent Mason and commander of Crusader Commandery, Knights Templar, Rockford, was returning to Rockford after attending a Knights Templar inspection in Dixon with a passenger, Mrs. Cecile Hammer, 49, also of Rockford.

Leg. Arm Fractured

Mrs. Hammer suffered a fractured arm and leg. She was reported "resting comfortably" today in Rockford Memorial hospital. The accident was reported by Alvin Black, Oregon, who was returning from work in Rockford about 2 a.m. He reported the accident to the Ogle county sheriff's office in Oregon. Sheriff James White and Chief Deputy Sheriff Dallas Twigg investigated and reported the highway dry and visibility good.

The 1954 model car was badly wrecked.

Mr. Rowland was the son of the late A. A. Rowland who operated Rowland's pharmacy at Second street and Galena avenue in Dixon for many years.

Graduate of DHS

Mr. Rowland graduated from Dixon High school in 1919 and studied pharmacy in Des Moines. He operated drugstores in Rochelle and Cedar Rapids, Iowa, before opening his Rockford store about eight years ago.

He lived with his mother at 541 N. Court st., Rockford. He also is survived by a brother, Charles, of New Jersey.

He was a member of Freeport Consistory and the Shrine in Rockford.

Funeral arrangements were not completed today. The body is in Long and Klontz funeral home, Rockford.

WANTS DIVORCE SET ASIDE—Jean Scott Baker, 21-year-old model, poses in state Supreme court, where she filed suit against Seth H. Baker, 26, a stock broker, seeking to have the court set aside a Virgin Island divorce from Baker. He recently wed Joan Benny, daughter of comedian Jack Benny. Miss Scott asked a separation plus support and maintenance. She contends that neither she nor Baker were bona fide residents of the Virgin Island in January, 1953, when the divorce was granted. Baker has maintained the divorce is valid and says Miss Scott accepted a $5,000 settlement when they split. (AP Wirephoto)

THE BONDS MAY GET HIM A FREE TRIP TO RUSSIA—Leo P. Bergin, Jr., a Fallon, Nevada, farmer, poses outside the Russian embassy in Washington with his $450,000 worth of pre-revolutionary bonds of that country. Bergin said he got a courteous welcome when he came to discuss trading the old securities for a free trip to Russia. Bergin said the Russian took the case under advisement. (AP wirephoto)

Hubbell Seeks School Position Files at Deadline to Make It 3-Way Race

William E. Hubbell, 52, 1010 Highland av., Dixon contractor, has filed nomination papers as a candidate for the Dixon board of education in the April 6 election.

Hubbell's filing Tuesday, the deadline for entering the field as a candidate, threw the election into a three-way race for two posts. David Ames, retail merchant, and Dr. C. R. Collins, veterinarian, filed petitions earlier.

The candidates will seek the posts now held by Francis (Hank) Henry and Dr. W. L. Stitzel, who are not seeking reelection.

The deadline for withdrawing from the race is March 22.

Hubbell, a member of the Dixon planning commission, was born in Amboy, but has lived in Dixon about 30 years and for 20 years has been in business as a general contractor. He attended Amboy high school and the Chicago Institute of Technology where he studied architecture.

He said he entered the race for the school board because of his interest in the schools, and at the urging of a number of friends. He has three children who attend South Central school, William, 13;

Sandra Mae, 11, and Gregg, 7.

Hubbell is a member of the social security committee of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, a past president of the Dixon Builders and Contractors Assn., and a member of Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Rotary club, Masonic lodge and Elks lodge.

Wholesale Food Prices Higher

NEW YORK (U)—Wholesale food prices climbed this week to their highest level since February 1951, Dun & Bradstreet said today.

At $7.27, the Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index compared with $7.25 a week ago. It was 13.2 per cent higher than the year ago index of $6.42.

This was the sixth successive week of rising food costs, the agency reported.

60-Day 'Cooling-Off' Law For Divorces Is Invalid

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (U)—The Illinois supreme court today threw out as invalid a 1953 state law requiring a 60-day cooling off period in divorce cases.

The opinion, written by the court as a whole, held that the law violated constitutional provisions which set up the right to remedy in law "promptly and without delay."

The law, passed by the Legislature last year, required a 60-day waiting period before actions could be filed for divorce, annulment and separate maintenance.

Enactment of the law aimed at cutting down the divorce rate and patching up broken homes had been hailed by its supporters as a major step in overcoming some social evils.

It required that a person seeking a decree file a statement of intention 60 days before his formal complaint was made. During the waiting period, judges could use their discretion in calling parties for private conferences in an effort to compose differences and preserve the home.

In its decision, the Supreme Court also said that the law was not uniformly applied and it gave judges functions which were non-judicial.

The high court said it recognized "the laudable purposes" sought to be achieved by the law in curbing divorces, but added that such legislation must be held invalid when it infringes on constitutional guarantees.

"This court cannot concern itself with the wisdom of the legislation in question in determining whether or not it comes within the limitations which the Constitution imposes," the court said.

President Supporting Army Chief

Says He's Confident Of Stevens' 'Honor, Integrity' in Row

WASHINGTON (U)—President Eisenhower said today the Democrats are wrong about his tax program.

He also said he has full confidence in the honor and integrity of Secretary of the Army Stevens and stands behind the secretary who is embroiled with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

And he said any president who did not act immediately if the country were attacked by an aggressor ought to be impeached or even hanged.

Cover Broad Area

Those items were highlights of a news conference in which the Chief Executive under questioning from reporters ranged over a broad area of domestic and international issues.

Sen. McCarthy, commenting on the conference, said "The public hearings will demonstrate who is telling the truth."

On the subject of taxation the President said the contention by Democrats that a pending tax revision bill would help the rich—and not aid low income families—is simply an error.

Eisenhower said that to say that the administration bill is designed to help the rich people is—and he paused dramatically—an error. The reporters laughed at his obvious sudden restraint.

Eisenhower was asked if he would veto the tax bill if Democrats succeed in writing into it a provision raising the personal exemption from the present level of $600 to $700.

Could Not Say

The President said he could not say in advance what bills he would veto.

He said some of those who are the strongest advocates of tax reduction now include the very ones who said recently that they would not support an increase in the 275 billion statutory debt limit.

This shaft obviously was directed at Sen. George (D-Ga.) who has offered one of the tax reduction proposals. George declined to go along earlier in the year with an administration proposal to increase the debt limit.

The President said if he did not have confidence in Stevens' integrity, the army secretary wouldn't be holding the job. He said it may turn out that the secretary has made some mistakes, but he stands behind Stevens as far as the secretary's honor and integrity were concerned.

Should Be 'Hanged'

On other matters, the President: 1. Declared that any president should be worse than impeached—he should be hanged—if he didn't take what ever action he felt necessary to protect the United States against an unprovoked attack. Eisenhower said such action should be taken within two minutes without waiting for Congress to declare war.

Those remarks were prompted by Secretary of State Dulles' assertion Monday that the President has advance congressional authority to retaliate against any Soviet attack on London, or Paris, for example, in the same manner he would retaliate against an attack on American cities. The discussion was part of the running debate over the military "new look" and primary reliance on capacity for "massive retaliation" to head off war.

2. Announced that an investigation of coffee prices by the Federal Trade Commission is coming along in good shape and added he hopes to have the commission's report soon.

Ogle GOP Women Hear Speeches by Candidates

OREGON—(Special)—The Ogle County Women's Republican club's "candidates field day" was held Monday in the Black Hawk Grange hall with various candidates for state and local offices attending.

Julius Klein, candidate for the nomination for United States senator, termed himself a "Taft-Eisenhower Republican" and said the fight against Communism is not a monopoly of Republicans or Democrats. "We must not let the anti-Communist fight deteriorate into an anti-McCarthy fight," he warned.

Robert Canfield, seeking the GOP nomination for Congress from the 16th district, recalled that "It has been a long time since Ogle county has been represented in the halls of government. I want the privilege of representing Ogle county in Congress."

Roy Cleveland, candidate for the same office, said he would base all his actions on "100 per cent Americanism."

The incumbent Congressman, Leo Allen, who seeks reelection, outlined accomplishments of the Republican administration. He mentioned the truce in Korea, the removal of controls, able and efficient operation of the government and a $14-billion budget cut.

Allen charged the Democrats with increasing tax rates by 1,700 per cent after 1933, and pledged the Republicans would "bring taxes down as fast as possible without wrecking the economy and bringing on the 'depression' the Democrats seem to yearn for."

Other candidates present expressed the following views: Stanley Guyer, Rockford, seeking reelection as GOP state central committeeman, said he had called from auto accidents during his term as sheriff.

Mrs. Mabel E. Green, incumbent representative, emphasized economy in government.

David Hunter, Jr., also an incumbent, also pointed to phases of economy in government.

County Judge Helen Rutkowski and her opponent for the nomination, Paul Rees, both were speakers for the program.

Four candidates for sheriff also spoke briefly. They were Joe Powell, Oregon; Dallas Twigg, Oregon; William Albright, Polo, and Charles Allen, Rochelle.

Warren Wright, also seeking the treasurer's post, spoke of his good record when he served as treasurer in 1941-43.

Vernon Lux, Mt. Morris, candidate for state representative, said his background as a laborer, husband of a farmer's daughter and small business owner qualifies him to represent the district.

Sheriff James White, candidate for state representative, pointed to a cut in the county's death rate

Discuss Problems of Bulk Milk Handling During County DHIA 1954 Annual Meet

By GEORGE D. PERISHO
Ogle Farm Adviser

OREGON—The weather was bad and the icy roads made driving rather treacherous; nevertheless, 40 Ogle county dairy farmers braved the elements to attend the DHIA annual meeting which was held on the O. J. Caron farm last week. Don Leary, manager of the farm, discussed milking operation, feeding procedure, and pointed out some of the better cows. They have a herd average of 450 pounds of fat, with several cows in the herd doing well over 500 pounds of fat per year.

Florine, registered Holstein, 13 years of age, has 110,000 pounds of milk in her lifetime. In addition to this production record, she has two high producing daughters in the herd and Don feels that cows like these will certainly help to raise the average age of their dairy cows in milk.

After discussing the herd management practices, Leo Fryman talked on Bulk Handling of Milk. Leo said one advantage of handling milk is improved quality of the milk. As in most cases, the bacteria count will average 16,000 per c.c. Lots of canned milk producers are able to do better than this; however, the majority are producing milk of much higher count than this. It will also be an advantage to have a premium paid for this high quality milk and this premium will help offset the cost of purchasing the bulk tank. However, one must face the facts and we are not certain that this premium will be paid for any definite length of time. According to Fryman, the premium being offered for milk of 15 to 18 cents per hundredweight will offset the purchase of a bulk tank on 20 to 30 cows in the herd, providing the premium is paid for a period of five years.

Some of the disadvantages of bulk handling include the additional investment of equipment, and too, about this time of the year our roads are posted for a four ton load limit, and I am wondering how many of our bulk trucks can pick up all the milk and stay under this load limit. Also, it will be necessary for the truck driver to judge milk quality and to take a representative sample for the fat test and to record the amount of milk received at each place. Under the can pick-up method, the major requirement for the milk hauler was to be able to withstand the handling of heavy milk cans.

The above information seemed to answer most of the questions had 11 and 16 cows of the same breed. The smaller herd returned $145 more per cow above feed costs than the larger herd. By culling the low producers, the 11-cow herd averaged 457 pounds of butterfat per cow, while the larger herd's average was only 281 pounds.

On Friday of this week we will have Frank Andrew from the Agricultural Engineering Department, University of Illinois, to show slides and discuss labor saving devices for the handling of beef cattle and hogs. This meeting will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the Farm Bureau office. It is the regular spring meeting of the Farm Bureau-Farm Management service.

Another meeting that all of you are no doubt interested in, that is the Farm Machinery Clinic. This clinic will be held at the Rochelle High school on March 20 and at the Polo Motor company on March 27. The program for the day will include, care and maintenance and proper adjustment on combines, balers, corn planters, and mowers.

At each of these schools the group will be divided into four sections and each section will have an opportunity to work on all of the machines for about one hour each during the day. The program will begin at 9:15 a.m.

Trial of Commies Is Halted

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Testimony of a former FBI undercover agent was halted in the trial of five Communists here Tuesday when defense attorneys objected to a photostatic copy of the Communist Manifesto entered as evidence by the government.

Daniel Scarletto, a 34-year-old Los Angeles carpenter, had identified the photostat as a copy of the manifesto given him by one of the defendants, James F. Forest.

Defense attorneys objected when government attorneys attempted to read portions of the manifesto allegedly underlined by Forest. Their demand for the original copy was upheld by U. S. District Judge Roy W. Harper.

Scarletto said Forest gave him the copy while he was an FBI undercover agent as a member of the Communist party in California.

Another ex-undercover agent for the FBI, Samuel D. Russell, 35, of Los Angeles, testified under cross-examination that he kept carbon copies of reports he filed to the FBI while a member of the party despite instructions not to do so. Russell earlier testified Forest's wife, Dorothy Rose Forest, also a defendant, discovered the copies in his home in 1947 and told him he no longer was a party member.

The other defendants are William Sentner, Marcus Murphy and Robert Manewitz. All are charged with conspiracy to advocate violent overthrow of the government.

Fruit Spray Claims Two Young Lives

TULARE, Calif. (AP)—A dangerous fruit spray chemical known as epp, which paralyzes respiratory organs after entering through the skin, has struck down two more children—killing 2-year-old Glenn Kumimoto and making his sister Elle, 4, seriously ill.

And the life of 6-year-old Michael Ogden still hung in the balance at a Hood River, Ore., hospital where he was rushed after spilling some of the chemical on his legs Saturday.

The Kumimoto children, playing in a barn on their father's ranch, used some of it to make mud pies Monday.

Ex-Convict Questioned For Murder

CHICAGO (AP)—John Krawczewicz, 41, a railroad baggage worker, Tuesday night was detained and questioned by police after his wife was shot and killed in her home.

Mrs. Bertha Krawczewicz, 36, died in a hospital after being shot in back of her right ear with a .32 caliber revolver.

Police Capt. William Hennessy said Krawczewicz was convicted of murder on the death of his first wife, Mrs. Betty Allen Krawczewicz. He served from 1934 to 1942 in the Michigan State Prison at Jackson, Mich., Hennessy said.

He added Krawczewicz also is wanted on a bigamy warrant issued in Benton Harbor, Mich.

Police said the woman's daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brewer, told police they were in the living room of the Krawczewicz home with Mrs. Krawczewicz when Krawczewicz entered, started a quarrel with his wife, suddenly pulled a gun and fired twice. One bullet hit the woman

Sen. McCarthy Speaks Tonight

CHICAGO (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) speaks to the Irish Fellowship club at a St. Patrick's day dinner tonight and special security measures have been taken to prevent any undue interruption.

The club's president, Walter F. Mullady, said several policemen in plain clothes will be among the more than 1,200 guests at the dinner in the Palmer House.

"They'll stop any disturbance," Mullady said, "although we don't anticipate any, and prevent any interruption of Sen. McCarthy's talk."

McCarthy's speech will be broadcast over the Mutual network at 9:30 p.m., CST.

Hennessy said Brewer disarmed Krawczewicz and held him while Mrs. Brewer telephoned police.

Young Mother Admits Beating Child to Death

SPRING CITY, Pa. (AP)—Police said today a young mother, charged with homicide, told them she beat her 9-month-old daughter to death because she was "mad at it."

Police Chief John Hanebury said Mrs. Phyllis Seeley, 21, who lives in a local trailer camp, called a taxi to give herself up after the beating.

He said he accompanied her to her trailer home and found the baby, Dawn, still alive. The child died six hours later in a hospital.

Police said the infant apparently had been beaten over the head with a hammer. A necktie was knotted around her neck. Hanebury also said Mrs. Seeley told him she knocked the child's head against a wall of the trailer because her crying made her "nervous."

Another daughter, about 2, was found unharmed in the trailer. Mrs. Seeley's husband Richard was at work at the time.

Renew Pressure

BERLIN (AP)—Bishop Otto Dibelius, head of the Protestant Church in Germany, says Soviet zone authorities are renewing pressure against the church after a lapse of six months. The bishop told churchmen in a speech this week "school children have been put under pressure, priests and religious services are under government supervision and difficulties have arisen in the issuance of permits for religious meetings planned to be held in the Soviet zone."

Tax Cuts Are Popular in an Election Year

It has been evident for some months that many members of congress favor more tax cuts this year than the administration thinks wise. House approval of the Reed bill covering a wide assortment of excise levies gives concrete expression to this sentiment.

Under this measure, the tax rates on a number of items, including telephone calls, transportation, luggage, jewelry, theater admissions, would be cut across the board to a flat 10 per cent. These now range from 15 to 25 per cent. Most have been in force since the early days of World War II.

Unaffected by this bill would be the rates on alcoholic beverages, cigars, gasoline and some types of diesel fuel, and various kinds of automobile products.

The estimated revenue loss to the U. S. treasury is $912 million. Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey says the government cannot afford the loss, that it will put farther and farther into the future the day of the balanced budget and a truly sound government economy.

But the lawmakers, worried over a falling line on the business chart and facing a tough election, are in no mood right now to fret about whether the budget is balanced in 1955 or 1956 or later. They want to show the voters something tangible, something that directly affects the pocket-book.

Humphrey believes it would be wiser to extend excise tax relief only in hardship cases or in places where it can be reasonably shown that business would thereby be prodded. Yet this argument, like his others on this issue, seems unlikely to prevail.

A much graver threat to the administration's fiscal program is the proposal to raise income tax exemptions from $600 to $700 per person. Here again, the political appeal is powerful, especially in the light of contentions by some that this kind of tax relief would give the slightly sagging economy a big shot in the arm.

Humphrey estimates that for every $100 increase in exemptions per person, the treasury would lose approximately $2.3 billion, on top of other losses in prospect from the excise bill and those suffered from the Jan. 1 tax cuts.

The administration obviously has a stiff battle ahead to put over its own more conservative fiscal policies. An upturn in business would boost its chances for success, but otherwise the outlook would appear to favor the tax-cutters.

The Mature Parent Young Mother Needs Help In Regaining Her Self-Trust

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

As a young girl, Mrs. N., her family says, was very "close" to them. Then, at 22, she overrode their judgment of a young man—and married him. In love, she insisted he was a paragon of self-assurance and generosity; but her family saw his generosity as extravagance and his self-assurance as bluster.

Mrs. N.'s judgment was mistaken. For some time, she tried to justify it by ignoring her husband's irresponsibility. But the shocks kept coming.

When her son Steve was born, she had to borrow the money to release herself from the hospital. Later, when Mr. N. would spend the rent and food money on entertaining "contacts," he said he needed in his job, she still tried to ascribe this extravagance to his generous nature.

At the end of eight years, Mr. N. himself finally faced her with her mistaken judgment—and ran away with another woman.

Now divorced and back home with her family, Mrs. N. spends most of her time apologizing for her boy's uncontrollable conduct.

Her family, out of patience with her, wants me to warn her of the results of her weakness toward Steve.

Instead, I want to ask Mrs. N. what she's afraid of in Steve. When this five-year-old youngster refuses her judgment on his proper bedtime, why doesn't she bundle him up in her arms and take him upstairs? Does she feel she's not competent to judge the proper bedtime for him?

Maybe. And if so, why? What has happened to Mrs. N. that makes her so suspicious of the good results of her judgment?

I wish that Mrs. N.'s family would rally a little more patience and understanding for her.

To raise Steve will require constant exercises of his mother's judgment.

Well, can't we understand how she fears to assert it again, even in a minor matter like bedtime? Can't we see how the suffering associated with her mistaken judgment of Steve's father has instilled terror of bad results from any judgment at all?

Let's go easy on the criticism.

If, like this young mother, we've been used to letting our families judge for us—and then in an emotional dash for independence, assert ourselves only to suffer for it, we need help in regaining trust in ourselves.

We need, not criticism of our weakness, but support of our courage as we lift our belligerent child in our arms to carry him up to bed.

WASHINGTON—I have information for you about Edward R. Murrow, the radio and television propagandist and an executive of Columbia Broadcasting System, who has been attacking Senator Joe McCarthy, Roy Cohn and others because they attacked Communists. It may seem to some fastidious persons that I am unjust in writing that the reason why Murrow attacks these men is the fact that they attacked Communists. If so, let me answer such doubts by asking whether you have ever heard Murrow praise any aggressive anti-Communist as noisily as he bails Red-baiters for bailing Reds. Or indeed, at all.

As another preliminary I should like to emphasize a phenomenon which I consider to be alarming in connection with the clamor raised by this important man. Have his broadcasts any virtue as political thought or English composition? Are they original or even defensible on grounds of intellectual honesty? In short, is it good for this republic that such a performer, combining the attributes of the carnival pitch-man and the irresponsible and utterly regardless political gas-bag, should suddenly command such wide attention for his rapid revelations and wield power over public opinion?

A greater thinker, a writer and orator of Churchill's melodious beat and roll is not to be denied, however momentary his persuasions may be. But we have been yielding our reason, our emotions, our franchise, and thereby important portions of our freedom, to coarse adventurers, some so vulgar that individuals, like the Biblical dog, go back to them, night after night, explaining "I listen because I like to hate him." At best the victim suffers a loss of taste and dignity. At worst he is degraded mentally and politically by the stuff that he can't resist because of its horrible fascination. Murrow stands a grade above the most flagrant wantons of this cult, maintaining a supercilious veneer.

Mr. Murrow was denounced by Joe McCarthy as an American adviser to the summer session of Moscow university. Murrow came back with a reply amounting to a flat denial in its effect on the public mind he said, "In 1933 I was assistant director of the Institute of International Education," as charged by McCarthy, and, "in this capacity, I was a member of the advisory committee for a summer school in Moscow."

At this point, Murrow took evasive action. He said specifically: "In actual fact, the summer school was cancelled by Russian authorities before it began."

Let us stop the record right there and look at the facts.

A program of the Bureau of University Travel, of Newton, Mass., entitled "1933, the First Russian Seminar and Near East Cruise," carries the name of Edward R. Murrow, "assistant director, Institute of International Education, New York," as one of its advisory committee. So two years before the year which Murrow picked out to use for his denial of McCarthy's expose, he was listed on the "advisory committee" of this pro-Russian project. And the "aims" of this "seminar" to Moscow by American under-grads and pedagogues were stated in these words:

"The inspirational opportunities for study and observation are unlimited. Would you like to have been an observer during the French revolution? The present opportunity in Russia is of equal significance. The first Russian seminar will take advantage of this opportunity."

Murrow does not deny that he served this in this connection in 1933. But he did tell the public that "in 1935" he did not serve as adviser for a Moscow Communist summer school because it was cancelled "before it began." Was that an innocent error or not? Murrow surely had not forgotten that he was listed on the roster in 1933 and 1934 when the seminars certainly were held. The 1933 seminar was described in a Soviet pamphlet circulated in American educational circles as "an experiment conducted by a group of American educators." The pamphlet said 25 students attended the 1933 project. In 1934, the attendance was 212, "including under-graduates, principals, professors, psychologists and social workers," for 1935, 1,000 were expected to make the pilgrimage, but the Hearst papers exposed the plot and Murrow tells us that the Russian authorities called it off.

Who were Murrow's colleagues in this roster? They included George S. Counts of Columbia University, Robert M. Hutchins, then president of the University of Chicago; Hallie F. Flanagan, the protégé of Eleanor Roosevelt in the audacious plan to create a subsidized national theatre in an atmosphere of revolution, and Stephen Duggan, "director of the Institute of International Education."

This Duggan was the father of that Lawrence Duggan, of the Latin American department of the State department, who was accused of giving secret American documents to Russian spies and went out a window in New York to his death. Whittaker Chambers and Elizabeth Bentley said Larry Duggan had been a member of the Alger Hiss spy ring. And Edward R. Murrow of CBS had said that the investigation of Larry Duggan was "character assassination."

Bear in mind that the "institute" of which Stephen Duggan was director at this time was the thing which made the arrangements for these American pilgrimages to scenes of mass slaughter and genocidal starvation.

Murrow finally rose to the pinnacle, becoming president of the Institute of International Education in some year which, like the year of his birth, is bashfully left to conjecture in "Who's Who."

His pedigree is loaded with the conventional biographical trash including three honorary, or Chinese, LL.D.'s and empty presidencies of something called National Student Federation and the Association of American Correspondents in London.

So this is the great educator Columbia Broadcasting System offers its capitalist clients with millions of the shareholders' dollars to spend on advertising. His sole legitimate qualification as an educated man seems to be his rather blank statement that he "graduated" from Washington State, but with what degree he seems too coy to tell, although there are rumors that he did expose himself to the standard hypodermic of mother countryism at Oxford.

"I'm a Hollywood film kid," he tells it. "I've spent two years of watchful waiting. I even have mixed emotions about whether Hollywood's star system is dead. A new film still has people asking 'Who's in it?' There's nothing to get panicky about. There are just more fields in which an actor can make a good living."

A television of "Johnny Dollar" "Maybe," he says. Maybe the "maybe" is because mention of TV makes Lund blush. In 1940, he was a CBS radio announcer and actor in New York, assigned to CBS' first experimental TV station. One of the shows was "Arthur Murray Taught Me Dancing."

"And he really did," John winces. "I was the 'Me' in the title. Once a week Murray himself came to the studio and taught me to dance in front of the cameras. 'We were all lucky. The program never left the building.'"

HOLLYWOOD —(NEA)—Behind the Screens Gen Omar Bradley took the starch out of Groucho Marx's eyebrows when he visited him backstage after a "You Bet Your Life" show.

When the general complimented Groucho on the humor he generates in interviews with contestants, Groucho flicked the ashes from his cigar and said:

"It's the guests not me. All the nuts come out to California to live, you know."

General Bradley colored, and said: "Ah, yes. You might be interested to know that Mrs. Bradley and I are now making California our permanent home."

Husband Must Realize Wife Is a Full Business Partner

A man with no understanding of what a wife and mother actually does in the role of homemaker presents a recent statement in this column that a wife earns the right to be a full business partner of her husband's.

Says he: "The job of dishwashing is a flunky's job and calls for only a flunky's wages. Housecleaning is also a menial job. As for laundry, a commercial laundry will wash and iron a shirt for 25 cents, and furnish the soap and water."

Though there are few men who actually realize how much time, energy, thought, planning, decision-making and patience go into the job of being a housewife, most men, fortunately, don't take the naive attitude that making a home for a family is a flunky's job.

She is far more than a cook, dishwasher, housekeeper, and laundress.

Variety of Jobs She is a purchasing agent, interior decorator, a hostess, often a chauffeur, a baby sitter, a child-guidance expert, a nurse, perhaps a gardener, and so on.

No one can measure the thought and effort she puts into such things as keeping peace in the family, building self-confidence in her children, seeing to it that no one in the family feels inferior or unloved, keeping friendships alive and encouraging her husband.

Any man is foolish who doesn't at least glimpse the importance of the wife's contribution to the family.

And any man who thinks of a homemaker in less than those words simply deserves to spend the rest of his days up a rooming house eating his meals out and sending his shirts to a laundry.

Sure he could exist like that, but he would be getting just what he paid for—a mere existence.

Woosung Club Celebrates 25 Years' Service

The Woosung Woman's club celebrated its 25 years of service to the community, with an afternoon Silver Tea, held in the Loveland Community House, on March 10.

Members and guests at the meeting numbered 72, and five of the charter members were presented with corsages of red and white carnations.

The program began with hymn singing. The soloist for the afternoon was Iris Cashman, and she was accompanied at the piano by Edna Grobe.

Dottie Kesselring gave the report on the club's 25 years of work. Mrs. A. T. Ogren entertained the members with two playlets, and Mrs. Jake Depuy played piano selections while refreshments were served.

One of the highlights of afternoon was the presentation of a bouquet to the club members from Mrs. Roda Carnes of Cotter, Ark., a former member of the club.

Dottie Kesselring and Charlotte Schultz presided at a table which had as its centerpiece, an arrangement of sweet peas, the club flower.

Members of the Woosung Woman's club are proud of their club's record for the past 25 years, and they look forward to another 25 years of progress and service in its organization.

Mothers' Study Club Meeting

Brilliant Young Artist Gives Fine Performance

Rawn Spearman, gifted young tenor from New York, delighted a large and appreciative audience in the High school auditorium last night, in a singing recital which terminated this season's series of Civic Music Association concerts in Dixon.

This young artist gave a program of singing which showed the full scope of his beautiful voice and imaginative presentation. He has a voice of wide range and restrained power, and his tone qualities are polished and perfect.

Critics have referred to "the simplicity and compassion with which Spearman is able to communicate the poetic spell of a song, perfectly understood and deeply felt," and it was this poetic spell which certainly captivated his Dixon audience last night.

Accompanied by Ben Jenkins at the piano, Spearman's program included: "Rejoice O My Spirit," from Cantata No. 21, by Bach; three of Franz Schubert's songs: "Halt," "Der Neutierger," and "Meine." Then came a trio of French chansons: "Pourquoi?" by Oliver Messiaen, and "Une Herbe Pauvre" and "A Toutes Brides," both by Francis Poulenc. These were followed by two charming song interpretations of poems by Sarah Teasdale.

The program ended with a Cycle of Afro-American Work Songs: "Lord, How Come Me Here?" "Po Me," "How Long Fo' The Sun Go Down?" and "Day is Done."

Rawn Spearman presented this final section of the program with such simplicity, dignity and feeling that one felt that his audience was deeply moved by the poignancy of the words and music. A most impressive touch was added to his performance, when in the song "Day is Done," the artist walked slowly off the stage so that his voice could be heard distinctly, as the voices of the field workers could be heard, as they thanked God for the sunset, and went singing home.

As an encore to his program Spearman sang, "Were You There

Auxiliary Meet

Dixon Unit No. 12 of the American Legion Auxiliary met on Wednesday in the Legion club rooms.

Members voted to give a donation to the Red Cross and to the Cancer Society.

A dance review to be given by Elsie Neff's pupils at the Dixon high school in May, was voted upon.

The unit received a note from Miss Esther Barton thanking members for the presentation of the flags to the Lincoln school, and one from Miss Beverly Strous in appreciation of a gift sent to her by the members.

PRACTICAL CLUB

The Practical club met with Mrs. George Holland on Tuesday for a 1:30 dessert luncheon.

The program of the afternoon, prepared by Mrs. C. A. Mellott and read by Mrs. William Ware was on the subject of graphology.

Mrs. Mellott had previously asked each of the members to write her a note, and having analyzed their handwriting, Mrs. Mellott asked the members to read out their own individual analysis. This provided a great deal of enjoyment for all.

Mrs. Ronald Martin was a guest at this meeting.

Who Is Lying, Senator McCarthy, Army, Cohn?

Subcommittee Faces Tough Question Soon

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (U)—Who's lying? Finding the answer will be the main task of the Senate subcommittee which investigates the fight between the Army and one side and Sen. McCarthy and Roy Cohn, chief counsel of his investigations subcommittee, on the other.

But whether the committee ever agrees on the answer may turn out to be as interesting as the investigation itself. The seven-man group has four Republicans, including McCarthy, and three Democrats.

Under Oath

Since the Wisconsin Republican says he will testify under oath, that means all the witnesses—including, no doubt, Cohn, Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens, and John Adams, the Army's chief counsel—must also swear to tell the truth.

The dispute revolves around Army Pvt. G. David Schine, son of a wealthy hotel family and unpaid worker on McCarthy's staff until he was drafted.

The Army says McCarthy and Cohn interceded to get Schine a commission before he was drafted and afterwards tried to pressure the Army into giving him special treatment. McCarthy and Cohn deny this.

McCarthy says the Army

Noted Evangelist Will Be Speaker At Grand Detour

The Rev. Cedric Sears, evangelist and youth leader, will be the featured speaker at the Grand Detour Union church Thursday and Friday at 7:30 p.m.

For several years, he was director of the Chicago and Youth for Christ rally. Before entering this work in 1948, he was a radio pastor.

He made his appearance as director in Chicago after conducting a preaching ministry through the British Isles and Western Europe.

The Rev. Sears received his education at Northeastern university, Moody Bible institute, Wheaton college, and North Central college. He has been associated in evangelism with Robert Cook, Billy Graham, and Torrey Johnson, founders of the Youth for Christ movement.

Wife of Dr. McCall Gets Divorce Here

A divorce decree was granted today in Lee county Circuit court to Mrs. Margaret McCall, 815 E. Chamberlin st., who charged her husband, Dr. Harold F. McCall, Dixon physician, with extreme and repeated cruelty.

In granting the divorce, Judge Robert Bracken awarded the custody of their three children to Mrs. McCall.

Dr. McCall, according to the decree, indicated he intended to accept a position outside the territorial limits of the United States. Judge Bracken ordered him to pay $100 alimony and $200 child support by April 1 and $25 a week alimony and $50 a week child support after April 1 until further order of the court.

According to the decree, they were married Nov. 8, 1941, and lived together until Dec. 19, 1953. The court further ordered Dr. McCall to convey a quit claim deed to real estate in Lee county to his wife, who also was awarded household goods.

Dixon High Debate Squad Will Enter NCIC Meet

The Dixon high school debate team will enter the North Central Illinois conference debate competition at Geneseo Saturday.

The squad failed to place recently in the sectional debate at Waukegan in which 14 schools were represented. First place went to East Rockford with Elgin second. Julia Lesage and Don Nolan took the affirmative in this debate while Tom Richards and Austin Ritterspach were first and second negative. William Zinnen is debate instructor.

Personals

Dr. I. Katz and Dr. V. A. Auriene will attend the 4th Annual Mid-West Chiropractic conference at the Morrison hotel in Chicago, Friday through Sunday.

tried to "blackmail" him into giving up his investigation of communism in the Army and produced memoranda charging the Army was holding Schine "hostage" to make McCarthy lay off. Stevens and Adams deny this.

Allows Cross-Examination
McCarthy now says he will not only testify under oath but will let Army witnesses, or their lawyer, cross-examine him. This couldn't happen under the committee's present rules without McCarthy's agreement.

But as a member of the committee he will be able, unless the rules are further changed, to cross-examine those who testify against him.

Cohn won't be able to play his usual role in the hearings of this committee. As its chief counsel he did most of the routine questioning of witnesses.

He said last Sunday he had learned that one of the committee's staff members had gone around to the other staff employees asking them to sign a pledge of loyalty to Cohn. The counsel said he had nothing to do with this.

Makes It Impossible
If there had been no other reasons, this alone would have made it impossible for the committee's regular staff to work on this investigation.

So the committee Tuesday decided to make Cohn step aside for this investigation, and the whole staff too. Another chief counsel and a new staff will be hired for this one investigation.

Assembly Park Area Annexed

Lot Owners Act Quickly to Get Sewer Extension

A resolution annexing approximately one-half of Assembly park subdivision, on the northeast fringe of Dixon, was passed Tuesday night by a unanimous vote of the city council.

Acting on a petition of numerous landowners, about 42 lots were added to the city in the sweeping annexation that might lead the way to other large scale additions to Dixon.

According to estimates, about 50 per cent of the property involved belongs to Mrs. Mabel Shaw, 100 Dement av., Dixon, president of the B. F. Shaw Printing Co.

The council authorized Wayne Smith, city clerk, to record the annexation papers and maps. In the wake of annexation, property owners also submitted a petition to the board of local improvements to install a sewer in the newly added section.

A public hearing on the sewer proposition is scheduled for April 7 at 8:15 p.m. where objections to the project will be considered. To install the sewer, property owners will have to pay a special assessment estimated at $10,454.

Preliminary estimates find that it will cost about $390 for each lateral. Dixon Atty. William Gunner, of the law firm of Dixon, Bales, and Gunner, was appointed by the board of local improvements as commissioner in charge of levying assessments.

$15,000 Busser Injury Claim Upheld by Judge

Lee County Circuit Court Judge Robert Bracken overruled Tuesday afternoon a motion to set aside a $15,000 default judgment against John L. Moore, proprietor of the Royal Palms tavern, Dixon.

The motion had been taken under advisement Friday by Judge Bracken following a hearing at which Moore's attorney claimed his client did everything reasonable to contest Miss Busser's claim.

Miss Busser filed the damage suit against Moore because a youth, in whose car she was riding, allegedly had been served liquor by Moore prior to an accident in which she was injured.

Blames Firm
Judge Bracken placed the blame for the default judgment against Moore in the laps of the Exchange Insurance company, which carried the defendant's insurance.

The insurance company failed to file an answer to Miss Busser's complaint on or before Feb. 15, the date due.

Bracken said the insurance company, in seeking to set aside the judgment, was demanding, in effect, that the court permit it to take advantage of the apparent diligence of Moore as a defense to what the court believes was its own negligence.

The court felt that Moore, in notifying the insurance firm of the claim, had done all he could to bring forth a reply to the suit.

In reviewing the facts, Bracken stated that the Busser complaint was filed Jan. 22, 1954, and a summons was issued to Moore on the same day. The return day was set for Feb. 15.

The summons was served Jan. 23 and apparently was delivered by Moore to the L. J. Welch Co., Dixon, his insurance agent. The Welch company, agents of Fidelity Insurance company, Chicago, delivered it to the Chicago firm.

Although on Jan. 25 Fidelity Insurance was not able to find a claim referring to the Moore policy, it acknowledged the existence of a claim on Jan. 27.

On Jan. 28, the Welch company was advised that the claim was forwarded to the claim department of Exchange Insurance association, Chicago.

The Exchange association admitted receiving the claim on Jan. 28.

Takes Judgment
On Feb. 17, two days after the answer and appearance of Moore was due, Miss Busser took a default judgment against him.

Exchange said the claim did not receive attention until Feb. 18, when the notice of default judgment was filed.

The firm blamed inexperienced help for failing to "red flag" papers needing immediate attention.

statement by Rep. Cole (R-NY), chairman of the Senate—House Atomic Energy Committee, that the United States has the hydrogen bomb and can deliver it anywhere in the world.

The President said he was reluctant to comment because he could not recall for sure just how much information has been released on that matter. He said he would check into it and possibly discuss the situation further at his next news conference.

Without confirming Cole's statement that the U. S. does have an H-bomb, Eisenhower said he assumes that we do have what he called the right planes and the machines available to deal with any situation.

4. Spoke sharply of an Army major general who spent government money to build a house for his dogs. He ought to live in it, Eisenhower snapped.

"Very Private"
5. Termed as very private the talks between the United States and Russia on his proposal to create an international atomic pool for peaceful purposes. The President made it clear that he didn't care to discuss the matter publicly.

6. Declared he has no intention of being a bull in a china shop so far as steps against racial discrimination are concerned. He said that as we come closer to the principles of the founding fathers, the closer we will be to solving the problem of any such discrimination.

7. Announced that the White House would make public later in the day an executive order dealing with government research and development. He noted that two billion dollars is earmarked in the budget for that purpose, and he called it really big business.

The President was a green tie, marking St. Patrick's Day. He said with a grin that he hoped everybody in the room was wearing the green emblem.

Former Union Official Lists 32 as Communists

Moline Man Tells of Quad-City Activities

CHICAGO (U)—A former union official has named 32 persons—most of them labor leaders from the Quad Cities area of Illinois and Iowa—who he says were Communist party members or attended important Communist meetings in the early 1940s.

Walter W. Rumsey of Route 1, Moline, was the final witness as the House Un-American Activities subcommittee ended two days of hearings in Chicago.

"One and the Same"
Rumsey told the committee, chaired by Rep. Harold Velde (R-Ill.), that in the early '40s the Farm Equipment Workers Union (FEU) and the Communist party were "one and the same."

"In 1943," he said, "I was Quad Cities industrial organizer for the party and also organizer for the union. It was one and the same."

The Farm Equipment Workers and the United Electrical Workers (UE) were expelled from the CIO several years ago on the ground they were Communist dominated. They now form a single independent union.

Rumsey, who said he was a Communist party member from 1942 to 1944, Quad Cities FE members were assessed for Communist purposes. He said the assessments were voted at union meetings after delaying tactics had reduced attendance to a point where Communists were dominant.

Called a "Stooge"

A spokesman for the FE-UE said in a statement Rumsey is a "company stooge who indiscriminately smeared a lot of people in an effort to prove that communism is threatening American labor. The real danger is fascism and Velde is a fascist."

The statement said Velde is "trying to whip up sentiment for

Amboy Slayer Again Denied Court Appeal

A motion of a 63-year-old Amboy man, serving a life term in Illinois for murder, to appeal his case was denied Tuesday by Judge Bracken, Lee county Circuit court.

Denial came on a recommendation by State's Atty. James Bales to dismiss the motion in that the court lacked jurisdiction.

It meant another setback for Charles Skinner who was found guilty in 1935 of murdering a 17-year-old Amboy high school girl. Skinner, during almost 20 years behind bars, has attacked the judgment of the courts approximately 35 times.

He has filed cases in Lee county Circuit court, the Illinois Supreme court, the United States District court, eastern division, and the Circuit court, Randolph county.

Skinner was between 40 and 45 years of age when he was sentenced to spend the remainder of his life in the Illinois State penitentiary.

He currently is confined in the Menard branch, Menard, Ill., in the section for criminally insane. A Lee county Circuit jury found him guilty in April, 1935 of murdering Olive Derwent, in a shooting near her home in Amboy.

Skinner contends she actually died of pneumonia and not of gunshot wounds.

He claims she was transferred between KSB hospital, Dixon, and Amboy Public hospital, where she was treated after the shooting. As a result of the transfers, he believes, she caught pneumonia and died.

Dixon Woman Gets Divorce

A divorce was granted today in Lee county Circuit court to Dorothy F. Andrews, 519 Squires av., Dixon, who charged her husband, John, with extreme and repeated cruelty.

According to the decree issued by Judge Robert Bracken, they were married July 17, 1947, in Rock Island and lived together until Nov. 11, 1953. No children were born to the marriage.

Mrs. Andrews waived alimony.

Dixon High Students to Tour East

For 20 Dixon high school students, spring vacation this year will mean a valuable extra-curricular education when they embark on a tour of Philadelphia, Washington, D. C., New York and Alexandria, Va.

Accompanied by Miss Clela Currens, home economics teacher, the 20 upperclassmen will embark on their seven-day excursion, March 26. They will leave on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for Philadelphia, the first stop on the tour.

There they will visit Independence Hall, where the Liberty Bell and Congress hall are located, and the Betsy Ross home.

The tour then moves on to New York where the students hope to witness the United Nations in session. If so, they will have the opportunity to hear the talks translated into five languages.

List Agenda
Other sites on the agenda in New York include the Statue of Liberty, the Empire State building, Times Square, Rockefeller Center, Greenwich Village, Radio City, the Brooklyn bridge, Chinatown, the Bowers and Wall street.

From the Empire City, the tour will entrain for the nation's capitol to look in on congress, the White House, the Congressional library, the Supreme Court building, the Treasury department, the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, the Pentagon and the National Archives building, home of the original Declaration of Independence, and the Constitution of the United States.

To Mt. Vernon
The group will then leave Washington briefly to tour the Mt. Vernon home of George Washington. They will return to the capitol to visit Arlington National cemetery where they will witness the changing of the guard ceremony in front of the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, the Lincoln Memorial, the Jefferson Memorial, the Washington Monument, the Zoological park, the Smithsonian Institute and the National Museum.

List Tourists
Planning to make the trip are: Jean Buckley, Mary Lou Conderman, Mary Byron, Helen Muhleback, Virginia Klatt, Julie Horton, Mary Lu Loftus, Mary Metzler, Jo Anne Slothower, Delores Newman, Roger Buckaloo, Joe Jones, Franklin Green, Noble Baker, Bill Stitzel, Jim Glessner, Mary Landquist, Gretchen Van Scoy, Lois Morris and Mary Wakeley.

Ogle Licenses
OREGON—George L. Remour and Beverly Steffa were issued a marriage license Monday by Ada McGurk, Ogle county clerk.

Hans J. Heuer and Bernice Krahenbul, both of Chicago, received a license Saturday.

Statehood Bill Stalled Long Debate

WASHINGTON (U)—Southern senators skilled in the art of lengthy debate today continued their attack on statehood for Hawaii and Alaska.

Sen. Daniel (D-Tex) was prepared to take over where Sen. Eastland (D-Miss) left off Tuesday night.

Eastland occupied the senate floor nearly four hours in what he said was his "preface" to a discussion of his theme that Communists dominate the political and economic life of the Hawaiian Islands.

The Mississippi senator announced that he plans to speak for "three or four days."

Sen. Smathers (D-Fla), a leader in the opposition to the combined Hawaii-Alaska statehood bill, told a reporter there will be no filibuster in an effort to prevent a senate vote. But he said he does not believe there is a chance for a vote "on anything" in the senate this week.

He said an amendment proposing commonwealth status for Hawaii and Alaska as a substitute for statehood probably will be offered in the senate Thursday.

The commonwealth proposal would give the two territories the right to elect their own governors and retain federal tax collections for local use. But they would not get voting representation in congress nor participate in presidential elections.

Actor Advocated Sports Instead Of Motherhood

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (U)—Actor John Bromfield said she "should take up sports instead of motherhood." French actress Corinne Calvet testified in obtaining a divorce from him.

Bromfield didn't want any children, she said Tuesday, adding: "He said I couldn't take a chance with my career and leave the screen for a year to have a baby. . . . He said I could have no children because I was not a competent housewife and therefore he was sure I would not make a capable mother. I was embarrassed because all our friends thought we should have children and I didn't know how to explain why we didn't."

The court awarded her alimony payments of 10 per cent of Bromfield's gross income if it totals more than $20,000 a year, her share of community property and restored her maiden name.

The couple married in Boulder City, Nev., in 1948.

Much of U. S. Can Expect Low Mercury

WASHINGTON (U)—The Weather Bureau anticipates that temperatures will average below normal for this season in much of the country for the next 30 days.

It issued this forecast Tuesday:

"The Weather Bureau's 30-day outlook for the period from mid-March to mid-April calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals over the eastern half of the nation with greatest departures over the Southeast. Over the western half of the country temperatures averaging not far from seasonal normals are expected, except for below normal along the West Coast.

"Precipitation is predicted to exceed normal in the Northeast, Northern Plains, and along the West Coast, while subnormal amounts are in prospect for Texas and bordering states. Elsewhere about normal amounts are indicated."

Shamrock Mail

SHAMROCK, Fla. (U)—Postmaster C. B. Goodman had about 500 more letters and cards than usual for postmarking today.

They went out on this St. Patrick's day postmarked, of course, "Shamrock, Fla." They had been sent to this town of 300 from throughout the country for that special purpose.

Irish Bargains

ENDICOTT, N. Y. (U)—A local department store is offering a 20 per cent St. Patrick's day reduction on any item with so much as a speck of green on it—except items on which prices were fixed by the manufacturer.

Reduce Freight Rates on Coal

WASHINGTON (U)—Reductions in the railroad freight rates on some types of coal moving from eastern and central states mines to areas in the vicinity of Lake Michigan and Lake Superior have been approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Included in the changes are: Reductions of 50 cents a ton on fine coal and 25 cents on lump coal from Indiana and Illinois mines shipped by all-rail routes to destinations in the Fox river valley of Wisconsin and intermediate points in Wisconsin.

When a severe earthquake hit the Mississippi Valley in 1811, parts of the river flowed upstream for a short time.

NEW YORK (U)—Both television and motion picture dramas reach their audience on a screen, but there is little similarity about the way the two arrive at that common end.

The time factor, carried over from radio, has given TV production the atmosphere of an assembly line. It always is working under pressure of the clock.

And the average feature movie will cost from one-half to one million dollars, against an average of $32,000 per hour for TV dramas.

Takes Months

In Hollywood, months will be taken in the writing or rewriting of a drama. In television, a play is prepared in at the most several weeks.

In the movies as much as a year may be spent in shooting the film. In TV only a week or two elapses between production. Rehearsing, the movie actor may have to memorize only 30 seconds to a minute of dialogue at a time, go before the camera for a brief period and then rest until the next "take."

In television he must know his part in its entirety, for which he has seven days of practice. When the show hits the air he must go through it without halt, except for short announcing periods. Should he miff, he or someone else has to ad lib around the mistake. There are no "re-takes" as in the movies.

A "Factory"

There are other factors, too, but summing it all up, this is the way an ABC-TV director puts it:

"TV is a mechanical and electronic factory, working on an assembly-line basis and turning out drama at the command of a clock. Everybody is a slave to this routine."

"As soon as the show comes off the air, there's only one thing to look forward to—get going. It's just a week to the next one."

They'll Toss A Party for Woman Ghost

HOLYWELL, England (U)—They're tossing a party at the Ferry Boat Inn tonight for a woman who, if she exists, is 923 years old.

The ghost, known as the "White Lady of Holywell," is reputed to have haunted the inn since the middle of the 11th century.

Traditionally, she appears at midnight each March 17.

A. D. Cornell, of the Society for Psychic Research, claims he talked with her last year. She told him, he said, that her name was Juliet Tausley and that she hanged herself in 1050, at the age of 19, because of an unhappy love affair with a woodcutter named Thomas Zouli.

Cornell and eight other members of the society will be waiting for her tonight.

If she shows up, they will go in to action with a battery of infrared cameras, a tape recorder and a spectroscope. They want to find out what little girls are made of when they're nine centuries old.

Landlord Jack Rodd arranged to stay open and serve drinks for an extra hour.

Delay Sale of Hospital Sites

WASHINGTON (U)—Disposition of 14 hospital sites declared excess by the Veterans Administration was promised to be delayed "for a reasonable period" by the government.

Max Elliott, of the general service administration Tuesday told the house veterans affairs committee nothing further will be done, for the time being, toward selling the properties or transferring them to other federal agencies.

Included in the sites is one in Decatur, Ill., proposed for a general medical and surgical hospital.

Industrial Plants Discover Their Booklet Plan Popular

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (U)—The H-bomb is tested in the Pacific and a little later a young supply clerk pays his check at Jersey Standard Oil Co.'s dining room in Rockefeller Center here and picks out a pamphlet from a rack nearby. Before his lunch hour is over he has a general idea of what the H-bomb is about.

The same scene could happen across the country. This information-feeding of employees, in fact, is now in use in some form or other by about 1,500 corporations. General Motors has been doing it for 4½ years, distributing 56 million copies of over 300 different booklets.

The leaflets that employees pick up the most are those on sports, hobbies or the "do-its" like "sew it yourself."

80,000 Copies

In six months Standard Oil has provided 80,000 copies of 47 different booklets for a total cost of $3,380.

The company gets them from the U. S. Departments of Agriculture and Defense, New York State Health department, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, National Safety Council, the American Petroleum Institute, from speeches by oil company executives (not too popular) and from a number of firms making a business of supplying leaflets for corporation racks.

One of these dispensers, the Good Reading Rack Service of New York, says the free pamphlet services grew out of management's efforts, largely since the war, to educate workers on safety, economic Double Take!

CHICOPEE, Mass. (U)—Friends said Monday night Mrs. Rene Cote took her son Armand to a doctor's office for a tonsil checkup recently.

When Armand balked at letting the doctor look down his throat, his mother said, "Look, dear, it's easy," and opened her mouth wide.

The doctor took a look at Mrs. Cote's throat and said: "Hmmm, you'll have to have your tonsils out too."

'Other Woman' Testifies in Murder Trial

CHICAGO (U)—The other woman in the Vincent Ciucci murder trial testified Tuesday that she misled the defendant into thinking she was pregnant shortly before the deaths of his wife and three children.

Police found the bodies of Ciucci's family in their fire swept flat last December 8. All had been shot in the head. Ciucci has denied the killings.

The state contends Ciucci plotted to eliminate his entire family so he would be free to marry 20-year-old Carol Amora.

Miss Amora said she bore Ciucci a daughter in 1953. She also testified she thought she was pregnant again last December and went to a doctor. She wasn't.

"But I told him (Ciucci) I was," she said. "We talked about whether we should marry and he said he would put me on a trial basis for three weeks or a month. He accused me of shopping around for a husband and father for the baby."

Miss Amora said Ciucci left his wife to live with her for several months in 1953. She added she asked him what he intended to do and he replied:

"Don't push me. I'm doing the thinking. The last time I left with nothing. This time I'm going to leave something."

The witness said she started going with Ciucci three years ago before she learned he was married.

Nine Pacifists Strike Against Paying Taxes

CHICAGO (U)—Nine Chicagoans have announced a strike against paying federal income tax but the district internal revenue collector says they won't get away with it.

William Gnatz, a carpenter and war veteran, said in a statement Monday the nine objectors are members of the Chicago branch of Peacemakers, a national organization. They won't pay their 1953 income taxes, Gnatz said, because "we cannot conscientiously support the war preparations which consume a major part of the federal budget."

Ernest G. Sauber, district collector of internal revenue, said the taxes will be collected by routine assessments against the wages of the nine pacifists.

Boyle Reaches Birthday, Reacts Like a Coward!

By HAL BOYLE

ABOARD THE MAURETANIA AT SEA (U)—A sea cruise is the best way in the world today to cure yourself of land sickness, the gee-Id-like-to-get-away-from-it-all feeling.

On a ship you can get away from practically everything that bothers you, but you can't sail away from time.

Ever since my 42nd birthday I've had a sinking feeling that, sooner or later, I'd be 43 years old. And sure enough it happened just a few days ago, somewhere in the Caribbean.

He's Grabbed

I dreamed that old father time grabbed me by the forelock or what is left of my forehead and his gray voice wheezed in my ear: "Tag again kid, you're it. You're 43. Did you think you'd get away this year?"

Then I awoke and heard my wife saying: "Why are you trying to hide under the pillow, Rover? Wake up. Happy birthday!"

I groaned and pulled the sheet back over my head. This annual birthday cowardice on my part always annoys Frances.

"Listen, my little sree with the fringe on the top," she said. "I'm getting tired of nursing you through your birthdays. Why do you always take a birthday as a personal disaster, or as if it were a plot against you?"

He's Fragile

She had a point. I always feel fragile on my birthdays, fearful that something unexpected and dreadful will happen. I am afraid that if I comb my hair it will all come out at once, or that if I brush my teeth they will all fall out on the bathroom floor. From head to toe I feel decrepit.

"It's a matter of heredity," I told Frances. "The fear of growing old runs in our family, just as bankruptcy does in yo-uh-in other families. It's been that way for centuries."

Well, Jack Barnes, our room steward, brought me lunch, and a small crying towel. He cheered me by saying that while women could understand the horror of turning 40, only a man could appreciate the wilderness loneliness of being 43.

Blows Out Candle

Later I brushed my teeth carefully—didn't lose a one—and attended a birthday party at the captain's table. After some champagne I felt strong enough to blow out the single candle on my birthday cake. Understanding my suffering, those present recalled cases of men they knew who not only had survived their 43rd birthday but even had gone on to finer and bigger things. Probably nothing but lies, lies, lies, but I did feel better.

Then I went up alone and stood by a deck rail, just a middle-aged man on a middle-aged ship under a middle-aged moon, staring at the infinite night . . . the patient stars . . . the foam that flowered and died on the endless waves.

Somewhere beneath me in the deep lay the coral-encrusted bones of many forgotten men. The wind that cooled my face, or a wand just like it, would blow a hundred years from now on faces yet unborn, bringing them a fresh mood of mystery.

His 44-year-old wife gave birth to a daughter, Roseanna Alfreda, in Point Pleasant hospital Monday. Mother and daughter are doing fine.

A great-grandfather, Horner commented:

"I've got too many, but I haven't got one to lose. I wouldn't take 10 million dollars for one."

He had 14 children by a first marriage. Now he and his present wife live with seven of their children in a four-room apartment here.

Propose Special Session to Deal With State Drouth

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (U)—A proposal for a special session of the Illinois legislature to deal with the drought situation in the state is expected to come up at the state convention of the Illinois Society of Professional Engineers here March 25-27.

David J. Johnston of East St. Louis, consulting engineer and moderator of a panel which will be on the convention program, said the panel probably would recommend a special session.

Gov. William Stratton and state legislators of this area have been invited to attend the panel session. Johnston said the ground water supply in Illinois is dropping at an alarming rate.

when we all down to one of the Bathers' diners. Al Clayton started and ended with 166 but jumped to 215 in the middle set. Don Davis put in a big set and the season as the boss man of the Shaw Printing League Sunday, when he turned in a 604 series to give him the high mark for the season, and also putting him in the top spot in the averages with 172. With only two more league sessions it looks as if we'll all have to call Don Mister the rest of the year. Ray Rich started for a trio with 167, 167 but jumped to 173 in his last set. We'll remind the Lincoln Lanes league again that they should make plans to roll in the Lanes Blackhawk qualifying round a week from next Sunday, March 28, when the eight high totals of the men rolling will go into an elimination round for the championship. The bowling will start at 1 o'clock. Chuck Baumgardner was 20 pins off a trio with 126, 146, 146, but probably more important Chuck boosted his total over the 400 mark, having 418. Rhinhart of the Coolies spaced his games 13 pins with 112, 125, 134. Chet Beams had a seven-pin spread on games of 139, 146, 153, and Bill Mayes spaced his sets eight pins with 131, 139, 147.

128, George Stohover 120, B. E. Sander 124, Joe Ribble 122 and Granville Schaller 127, 129. Bill Wed missed three aces seven pins with 136, 131, 131. Tech Operating concentrated on the 140s, Bus Eakman having 140, Jerome Vigne 142, Ken Dippel 141, John Longman 143, 147, and Bob Neill 141. Bill Wiener was 10 pins off a trio with 134, 144, 144. Substation took their theme from Harry Smith's average of three 127s, with Bill Mayes having 131, Harold John 134, Bob Whitebread, 137, and Harold Smith 133. Although Dale Sennett is rolling only in the Public Service league this year, he demonstrated Sunday that in spite of his one-night a week kiegling he's a dangerous man, when he started with a 254 game to set the pace in the first game of the Recreation Blackhawk championships. At the Lanes John Decker started with 171 and then had 143, 145. Her's Sherbete each had a game in the 140s, Ernie Pike having 148, George Lamb 147, Ross Hicks 147, Bill Wagner 148 and Mickey Walker 145. We accompanied Mable Carter out to her cousins, Clarence and Edith Bothe's last night and bumped into a rabid Amboy fan in their daughter Marilyn, who naturally asked us what we thought of Amboy's basketballers in the first game with Dixon, and with a heavy heart we had to admit they looked mighty good but not near as good as the delicious steaks her mom set out before us, a neat way of changing the subject for we defy anyone to make us feel bad

Government Still Has Hand in Fixing Prices

Price Supports, Tariffs Play Big Part in Market

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—A high school freshman came home this week with instructions to interview his parents on this: "Are commodities worth what's being asked for them?"

"They certainly aren't," said her mother, with her mind on the price of coffee and butter.

"I should say not," said her father, with his mind on finished goods made from commodities—like a new suit he wants but which costs more than his present threadbare one did when new, and the new car he'd like but which now costs twice what his first one did 20 years ago.

The parents were talking like the consumers they are.

Far From Free

But just one year after price controls were officially declared dead, the price of many commodities is far from free of governmental intervention.

For years the Brazilian government has tried to increase or guard the price of coffee. For years the U.S. government has supported the price of butter. It also, to all purposes, controls the price of sugar by juggling the amount that may come into the country.

The price of the wool in your suit isn't entirely free of controls either here or abroad. Price supports, tariffs, quotas and even foreign exchange controls that keep various currencies from reaching their true levels—all play a part in the price of wool.

The big part of the cost of a suit, however, is the labor—all the way from shearing the sheep to stitching in the sleeves. And labor is up, just as commodity prices are.

Too Much Inflation

Even were the market free of controls, commodities probably wouldn't drift down to where they once were. The dollar just doesn't seem destined to get back its old purchasing power. There's too much built-in inflation.

Perhaps the economics teacher had in mind what commodity men are talking about: Whether the business dip will carry commodity prices down with it, and at the same rate of decline.

But most of the Korean price inflation was squeezed out of commodity prices a year and more ago. Last year and so far in 1954, commodity prices, in general, have stayed remarkably stable, if you go by the official indexes.

Appear Level

There have been spectacular rises—like the one in coffee. And conspicuous weakness—like that in some metals. But on the whole, after once adjusting to peacetime demand and supply, commodities appear to have leveled off.

Many commodity men now believe that prices will fluctuate with the seasons but show no great concerted trend in either direction, barring a new war or war scare.

Abington's Mayor Shot

GALESBURG, Ill. (AP)—Mayor Charles Hunter of nearby Abington was accidentally shot in his left arm and the left side of his chest while loading his gun at his home Tuesday.

The 63-year-old mayor was taken to St. Mary's Hospital at Galesburg where he was later reported out of danger.

Sheriff's deputies said Hunter may have been loading his gun in preparation for a visit to his Knox County farm near Abington.

Barkley Says Democrats Will Regain Control

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Former vice president Alben Barkley thinks that when farmers get the chance "they will do to like politically what he has been doing to them economically."

Barkley also told a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner Tuesday night that if President Eisenhower "had been as timid in Europe as he has been in the White House, we would have lost World War II."

Barkley told a news conference he thought the Democrats would regain control of Congress in this year's election.

Grand Jury Will Probe Charges of Jury Tampering

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP)—A Circuit Court grand jury inquiry has been ordered into reports of tampering with prospective jurors in personal injury suits.

Circuit Judge William G. Juergens, who ordered the investigation Tuesday, said he had learned 8 of 35 prospective jurors had received mail reprints of a magazine article critical of high jury awards in damage suits.

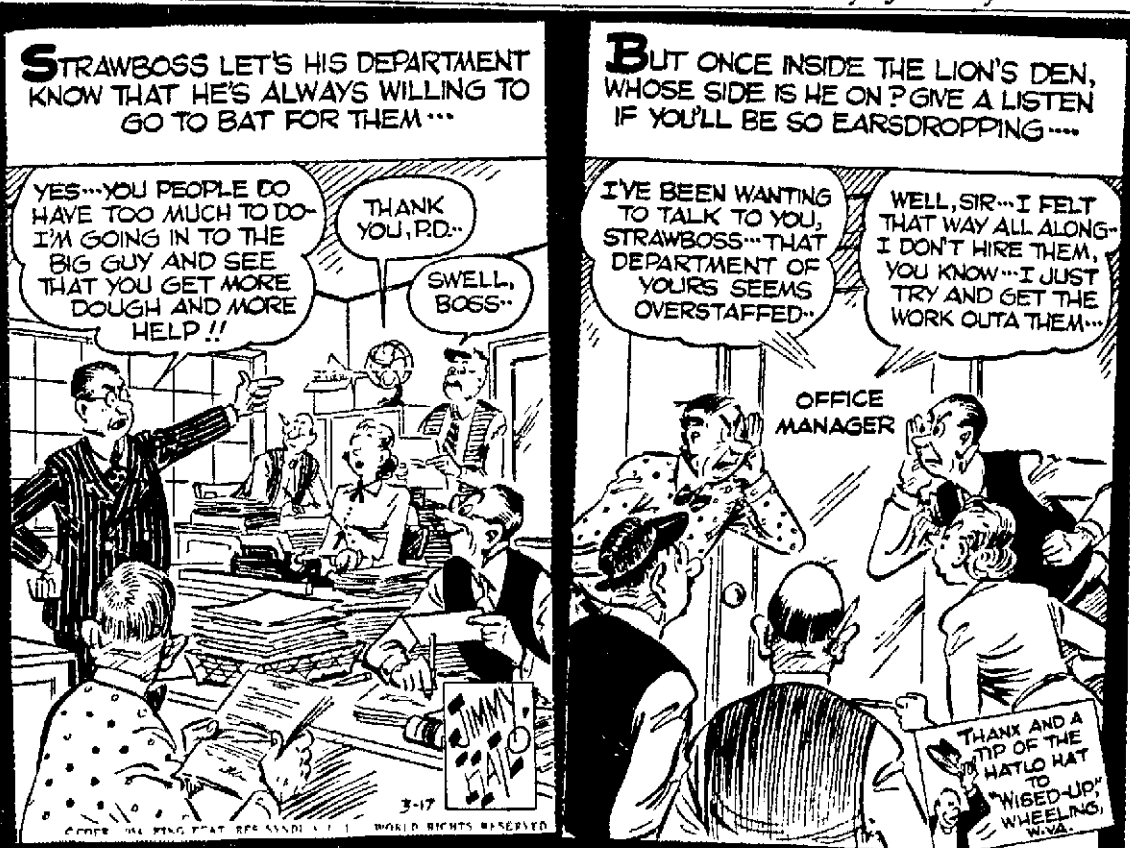

Judge Juergens, who declared a mistrial in one case, said he was informed the reprints were received in envelopes bearing St. Louis postmarks but no return addresses. Two of the jurors told him, the judge said, the envelopes bore the same address mistakes as the jury summons they received, indicating the sender of the literature had access to court records.

STOCKING UP—During a fashion show, there's scant time for changing costumes. The other day a bevy of New York models rashedly boasted, "We are the world's fastest stocking-changers." One of them said she could take off a pair of stockings and don another in 38 seconds flat. Slowpoke of the group took 52 seconds. A bevy of Columbus, Ohio, models emitted a ladylike "phooey to you-ey" and went to work, timed by a stopwatch. Shirley Lewis, second from right, above, made the quick change in 25 seconds. Slowpoke of the Ohio bunch was Beverly Robinson, center, who made the quick change in a fast 45 seconds. Other hose-hoisters are Sue Key, left, Barbara Jo Hilliker and Barbara Ann Harper, right.

May Order New Research Into Drug Krebiozen

CHICAGO (AP)—A legislative commission is going to meet in Springfield March 24 to decide how to end its long inquiry into the controversial cancer drug Krebiozen.

Meeting in closed session Tuesday night, members of the commission were reported to have agreed on a new test of the drug by an independent research testing group.

The group was reported to have tentatively scheduled a few more limited hearings into the merits and demerits of the drug which was discovered by Dr. Stefan Durovic, a Yugoslav physician, and sponsored by Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, of the University of Illinois.

Ivy was suspended for three months by the Chicago Medical Society because of the sponsorship. He has charged that a "conspiracy" existed against him because of his advocacy of the preparation made from the blood of horses and other undisclosed ingredients.

U.S. Will Aid Blast Victims

23 Jap Fishermen Burned By Ashes From Bomb Test

TOKYO (AP)—The United States today offered top-flight American medical aid to 23 Japanese fishermen burned and blistered by ashes from a supersecret U. S. test blast in the Pacific.

U. S. Ambassador John Allison also proposed a joint Japanese-American investigation of the March 1 incident in the Bikini-Eniwetok test region.

Four crewmen are on the serious list but doctors said they expect all 23 will live.

The intensity of their burns—skin blackening and hair falling out—and their story of the blast stirred speculation that the March 1 test may have been a thermonuclear (probably hydrogen) explosion. The crewmen's reports indicate they were about 80 miles from the blast center.

Japanese officials say they will ask compensation for the victims.

In Washington, Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY), chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, said it was possible the fishermen were spying but said he has no official report.

"We don't know whether the fishermen were in the area deliberately or accidentally," he said.

Pittsfield to Get Water From Farmer's Well

PITTSFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Pittsfield City Council has approved an agreement to get water for the community from a recently drilled well on a farm north of Pittsfield. The agreement will be complete when Ed Hillerbrunner, owner of the farm, signs it.

Pittsfield's reservoir dried up last fall and water has been hauled here from Louisiana, Mo. at a cost of about $600 a day.

Under the agreement the city will pay Hillerbrunner $15,000 if the well furnishes water 30 days and half that amount if it goes dry before then.

A state water survey of the well said it would supply at least 50 gallons a minute and local tests have indicated a 70-gallon a minute flow is possible, equal to the amount of water which has been hauled here. Mayor Kermit Klumfelter said today.

Cancel Fines For Women Who Were in Riots

CHICAGO (AP)—Municipal Judge Cecil Smith cancelled fines of $200 each against four women convicted of disorderly conduct charges after the women told him they now "understood America better."

The charges arose from racial disturbances at the Trumbull Park housing project on Oct. 13. The women Tuesday pleaded guilty to throwing rocks and tomatoes during the disturbances.

All had been ordered to attend two lectures on race relations.

The defendants are Mrs. Anna Stefanick, 54; Mrs. Rose Vlahovich, Dyer, Ind.; Mrs. Katherine Jakovich, 47, and Mrs. Eva Lulich. Disorders started at the project in August, 1953, after a Negro family moved into the previously all-white federal housing project on Chicago's far south side.
